

NEW YORK

May 18, 2011

the Cut

Lyn Devon designed outfits for the servers at the W Hotel Downtown's terrace bar. [Bazaar Blog]

Ever since Emilio Pucci dressed Braniff airlines stewardesses — yes, they were called stewardesses back then — in psychedelic swirls, a designer uniform has been a hot ticket. Lyn Devon is the latest to jump on the trend; she outfitted servers for the W Hotel Downtown's Living Room Bar and Terrace. At last night's party, the designer unveiled her playful take on the Wall Street look (modeled by the staff above) alongside BFF Lake Bell.